

The GIS Liberal Arts Education
A liberal arts education lays the foundation for intellectual pursuits and creates a framework for students to both contribute to and thrive in society. GIS offers opportunities for students to gain a wide and deep knowledge of various disciplines, including but not limited to the humanities and social sciences, in order to enrich the mind, make unbiased judgments, and develop flexible and innovative thinking.
GIS Diploma Policy
Diploma Policy 1 (DP1) Problem solving skills	Having a critical ability to identify problems in everyday life, make unbiased judgements, and adopt an analytical perspective that transcends conventions and narrow disciplinary confines to arrive at solutions for the problems.
Diploma Policy 2 (DP2) Ability to put academic knowledge into practice	Having a deep and knowledgeable understanding of the most topical issues facing the world today, and being able to apply this effectively to a range of issues drawn from various contexts.
Diploma Policy 3 (DP3) Understanding of diverse and different cultures	Having up-to-date and precise understanding of nations, regions and communities with diverse race/ethnicity, language, values and social systems, and showing respect for their different cultures.
Diploma Policy 4 (DP4) English communication skills	Having an excellent command of the English language, being able to grasp the fine points of any argument and actively and effectively contribute to discussions and debates.
